The programme has been launched under AOSPL's e-commerce division

Astute Outsourcing Services Pvt Ltd (AOSPL) recently entered into a joint venture with the Australian organisation Healthy Environments to launch Safe Space Management, a comprehensive biological defence system against infections and pathogens.

The programme has been launched under AOSPL's e-commerce division. During this pandemic, in a short span of 10 months, Astute Care has developed an exquisite suite of services and solutions that cater to all customers' needs efficiently, economically and effectively. The organisation has also launched an app under the name 'Astute Care' to make it easier for their potential customers to avail themselves of their services.

Astute Care is an ISO-certified on-demand concierge service. This business division focuses on providing services that cater to residential as well as commercial needs.

Under the Safe Space Management programme, all the cleaning and sanitisation activities are carried out using a revolutionary new disinfectant – BioProtect. It is a unique film-forming disinfectant that kills pathogens on contact and creates an antimicrobial barrier that stays active for 28 days and with residual activity up to 90 days, preventing the transmission of germs.

The organisation predominantly recruits its potential employees from the underprivileged sections. These candidates are then trained and certified at the Astute Learning and Training Academy (ALTA). This way, the organisation not only ensures the highest quality standards and 100 per cent workmanship guarantee but also generates employment opportunities in the process.

“Our Safe Space Management initiative is all about introducing world-leading products and processes in the hygiene service industry to create safer and healthier spaces. It is why we have conducted thorough R&D to come up with a disinfectant that is not only effective against germs – especially COVID-19 – but is also safe and eco-friendly. The growth trajectory of the hygiene industry has risen sharply since the pandemic hit our shores as people have become more conscious about the hygiene of the places they dwell in,” said Capt Shaji Kumar, Chairman, Astute Outsourcing Services Pvt Ltd.
